MOTHERHOOD AND DOGS — Most teevee fans think of June Lockhart as the country-girl mother of Timmy. Timmy is the master of Lassie, the Collie dog smarter than most newspaper editors.
Yet, here she shows up in a role we suspected all along she could amply fill — that of a pin up girl.
She is shown modeling a dress made from newspaper and magazine articles favoring Subscription TeleVision. Miss. Lockhart's paper dress, if not her anatomy, is her way of drawing the public's attention to Proposition 15 which will appear on the November ballot. She urges viewers — and readers — to vote no.

Built In Traffic Jam Seen When College Opens Sept. 14

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — An irritating, 45 to 69 minute traffic jam was predicted Tuesday on Fanita road. It will happen, according to County Surveyor and Road Commissioner David Speer, on Sept. 14 as students driving north on Fanita drive attempt to make a left turn to the new four-lane road leading to Grossmont College.

Speer also said that there is not much the county can do about the problem beyond extending the left turn storage lane to stack up more cars and at least keep the main traveled way clear.

Speer said that college figures show that about 1,200 students will attend in about 1,000 cars. He said the hour is also a rush hour for southbound traffic on the new county-built extension of Fanita. He said that it will take left turning cars 45 to 60 minutes to enter the college road.

The college can tell students to come early or to take the roundabout route from Mission Gorge Road, Speer said, but he also said that he did not think that this education program would do much good.

New Entrance Needed

The only reasonable step, Speer said, is for the college to seek another entrance.

College officials are meeting with the San Diego City Traffic Engineer Thursday to try to develop a new access from the southeast.

Speer said that leaving the college may be nearly as difficult as entering. He said that the county would have to spend $35,000 that it does not have budgeted to get any real relief.

Fanita, he said, at its north end is a temporary road that will be closed in 10 or 12 years by the proposed Ramona Freeway. He said that the rest of the road will be a local service road and will probably always remain two lanes.

The college position, as represented by Board Chairman Rex Hall, is that the district is in the education business and that the roads and access should be the responsibility of the county. Supervisor Robert Cozens took rather sharp objection to this point of view.

The county built Fanita road from the old southend to Navajo road (formerly Lake Murray blvd.) at a cost of $225,000 to give the college site its only access to any road.

Fanita at its south end is closely bordered by the cities of San Diego and El Cajon. El Cajon is now in the process of processing a large annexation that will include the college campus. If this annexation is completed, the problems of Fanita drive will be taken out of the county's hands as Fanita will be an El Cajon city street.

Birth Control Info. Eyed As County Function

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — The County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. Aug. 31 on the controversial question of making county service available for planned parenthood for low income groups.

Dr. J. B. Askew, county health director, in a report to board members, has strongly urged that the board make the services available. He said that planned parenthood is an important factor in the well-being of many families.

Implicit in such a program is birth control and possibly birth control devices.

The board has received more letters for and against the issue than on any other matter in recent years.

Some of those who favor the program do so on the basis that if such information and control is available, it will reduce the number of welfare-supported children. Dr. Askew did not emphasize this factor in his letter to the board.

Board Chairman Robert Dent says he believes the board should adopt the policy. Tuesday, Supervisor De Graff Austin supported Dent in the brief discussion which led to the setting of the hearing.

'Crime Syndicate' Broken At Spring Valley School

A Spring Valley "crime syndicate" was broken when sheriff's deputies apprehended four youngsters in the 12 to 15 age group.

Fred Griffin, vice principal, complained that the 17 records taken by youths who entered a room through a window during a school dance recently was the act that convinced him a formal complaint ought to be made to the sheriff. He complained that numerous school burglaries had been perpetrated on the school since May.

Officers working the case also associated the "syndicate" with four other jobs: two on private homes and two on Spring Valley self-service laundries.

Meawhile, the Spring Valley Elementary school at 3845 Spring st. was being vandalized during the week-end. A supply room door was forced and a supply of powdered soap was removed and scattered around the school yard. 23 keys were taken from a key board and holes were shot in 8 windows by a BB gun. A suspect has been named by witnesses.

Sheriff's Girls Get Transferred

Virginia Hinkle, who has served three years in the criminal division of the Sheriff's office in downtown San Diego became the office manager of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's office last week.

She replaces Norma Newhouse who had run the office for 4½ years. Prior to coming to Lemon Grove Mrs. Newhouse worked in the Sheriff's El Cajon sub-station. In the change over, Mrs. Newhouse was returned to the El Cajon office.

La Presa OKs Water Taxes

La Presa County Water Directors Monday fixed tax rates for the 1964-65 fiscal year and adopted a resolution for the use of the county in making collections. The areas to be affected are the subdivisions of the Colony of La Presa and of the East Side Addition to La Presa Heights. Sewer taxes will be $0.869 per $100 of assessed valuation and water taxes will be $0.897 per $100. The total taxes levied by La Presa and Otay Water Districts in these subdivisions will be $2.016 per $100 as compared to last years total of $2.857 a net reduction of $0.841.

Other subdivisions and lands in La Presa will again be free of La Presa taxes and will be required to pay only the 25c levy of the Otay Water Dis-

400 SIGN AGAINST FREEWAY ROUTE WEST OF SWEETWATER

Nearly 400 names have been acquired on a petition opposing the western route of State Freeway Legislative Route 125, it was announced here Tuesday by Abe Mukai and Larry Hunter, co-chairmen of the Committee Opposing Construction of Alternate Route "C".

Alternate proposal by the State Division of Highways is the eastern route, or "B" along Bancroft rd. in Spring Valley.

Route "C", opposed by the committee, would bring the freeway along the western side of Sweetwater rd. from Jamacha rd. to Broadway. The project would require 300 to 400 feet of residential area for the widening.

The committee said alternate route "B" provides a much greater ability to move more traffic faster to its ultimate destination than will alternate route "C", and over a more direct route.

Congestion of traffic where Highway 94 and the western route "C" will converge will cause many traffic problems because highway 94 was not engineered to handle the anticipated traffic volume, the pair said.

"This fact alone, we believe, will make the construction of Alternate Route "B" a vital link in State of California's Highway planning, even if Alternate "C" is constructed first," the co-chairmen said.

"Spring Valley and Lemon Grove residents are requested to give the matter serious thought and are urged to contact either one of us to sign the petition for the good of the community and the traveling public," they said.

Speaker Hits Rumford Act

Frank Johnson, bartender-turned-law student, warned the Lemon Grove Men's Club that the initiative (Proposition 14) against the Rumford Act (Fair Housing) is the "voice of the people giving notice that they intend to guard against socialistic or communistic legislation".

"Opponents of the initiative expressed surprise that so much money could be raised so fast," Johnson said. "But people are genuinely concerned that they are losing more of their Constitutional rights if the Rumford Act survives," he added.

"It is even possible that apartments may become classed as public utilities and become subject to bureaucratic administrative regulations," he said.

The Men's Club meets Fridays at Michaels and is open to the male public.

The program this week will be provided by Hamilton Marston, co-chairman of the S.D. County Committee of Californians Against Proposition 14.

It is the club's policy to present both sides of controversial issues and Marston will be replying to last week's speaker.

Youth Disarmed At S.V. Cafe

A 15-year old Encanto youth walked into Oscar's Drive in, 481 Sweetwater, Spring Valley Wednesday near noon and asked the waitress to call the police "before I hurt somebody."

The youth, already possessing a juvenile record, took a .22 automatic gun from his waist and laid it on the table.

The waitress, Irene Krings, called the police. Oscar's manager John Lemmons, approached the youth from the rear and grabbed the gun and a box of .22 shells which had been placed on a table and held the youth until officers arrived.

Seheriff's Deputies J. Scott and Ed Kohl brought the youth to Juvenile Headquarters.

Readers' Contributions To Buy Play Equipment

More help came this week for the playground fund for Angels Unaware, the East County Chapter of San Diego Association for Retarded Children.

This newspaper agreed to campaign for more readers with a portion of every new reader's subscription fee to be contributed to Angels Unaware.

Mrs. Victor Lee, director of publicity for the Center which is located at 1374 East Lexington ave., in El Cajon, said the playground equipment would be obtained as soon as a master plan for the facility is completed and landscaping is started. The Center accommodates youngsters from Spring Valley and Lemon Grove as well as from other parts of the East County.

As much as $3.50 is contributed to Angels Unaware for a two-year subscription ($3.50 a year) for those who subscribe directly to Angels Unaware. As little at .10 is contributed for those who renew a standing subscription through one of the newspaper's salespeople.

$2½ MILLION RETIREMENT FACILITY OPENS IN L.G.

The official grand opening of the $2.5 million Monte Vista Lodge, a complete service retirement facility at 2211 Massachusetts ave., in Lemon Grove, is being held this week-end.

Lodge Administrator, Norman Johnson said that many of the 18 buildings in the 7 acre facility are open for inspection.

Furnished models of varying sizes are also on display, Johnson said, along with the 2 large dining rooms, infirmary, recreation room and library, and a 200 seat auditorium which will be used as a chapel and a theatre for the showing of regularly scheduled movies, and for lecture series and travelogues.

Rental information is also available on the site to interested persons, according to Johnson, who pointed out that no contracts or obligations will be required for residence other than those of any commercial hotel.

"This is felt to be our most attractive point," Johnson said. "Many similar installations prefer to offer long range contractual agreements which are sometimes felt to be an inhibiting factor to the residents. At Monte Vista we want our guests to feel that they are free to come and go as they wish and stay as long as they're comfortable here."

Johnson, who has had extensive experience in his field, was engaged by the Monte Vista Board of Directors to coordinate the design features of the lodge when the project was instigated late last year.

A representative of the board of directors reported that Johnson and his assistant, Daniel White, a food service specialist from New York City, will remain at the facility to administer the operation and supervise the 65 employees.

Recreation features are also on display this week-end including a swimming pool and the developing site of a nine hole putting green.

Monte Vista Lodge is a locally owned corporation which, according to Johnson, will introduce a quarter million dollars yearly in goods and services from the north county.

Riha Construction Company of La Mesa are the General Contractors in the concrete and concrete block development. Dale Naegle, A.I.A., of La Jolla is the architect and Whitman, Atkinson & Associates are the structural engineers.

Political Fortunes Uncertain

His trouble is that he is going to be defeated in November in spite of the fact that he is a capable executive and a fine administrator.

We have just completed our post office poll among Spring Valley and Lemon Grove residents. Our totals show 64% for Boney, 30% for Bird and 6% were undecided of 120 people we interviewed at local post offices.

We chose the post office because it was a neuter place and certainly postal patrons are non-partisan and from every walk of life.

Although Bird has contributed much of his life, energy and, indeed, his health to his job, few of those we interviewed knew that he had provided the leadership by which sewers and roads were built in Spring Valley and Lemon Grove.

These utilities were necessary before homes could be built. People who occupy these homes came after Bird aided in getting these necessities for the burgeoning community—therefore, recipients of his effort knew nothing of the history of the supervisor's work. If the vote were restricted to "old-timers" Bird would easily win. He is being undone by the newcomer residents of the homes he helped to make possible. Bird trailed Boney in the primary 33,778 to 33,094 and because of his physical condition (he is a victim of muscular distrophy) he cannot be expected to hit the campaign trail with the energy of Boney, a younger man.

Such is the sad side of politics. Bird has a provable record of good service. No one has been able to make any charge that would suggest that he is incapable, dishonest or uninterested. His problem is that as an incumbent who racked up too few votes in the primary, he faces a hard-hitting opponent who will probably pull away from him to win easily in November.

Bird is highly respected and admired by those who know him. It seems a criminal waste for the public not to be able to utilize his knowledge and ability if he is defeated.

An even sadder situation will be that of viewing Bird as a defeated politician. The royal, red welcome mat to which he is entitled as a supervisor will be replaced with a hurried, half-interested handshake we give politicians not now in office.

Mr. Bird's friends in government, (and they are many) should seek a place for him now at the state or federal level so that his vast reservoir of experience and ability would not be lost. He should then be encouraged also to retire because of his physical condition (of which there is nothing to be ashamed) before the election. He would get pension commensurate with the great number of years he has given his County and we wou'd have the right to his advice and guidance.

He would then be known as our retired supervisor intead of

College Seeks Jobs For Local Students

Grossmont College Placement Office, a service of the California State Department of Employment on the campus, is in need of jobs for college students who are trained in phases of business or industry.

Statistics show it is vitally important that these young adults continue their education. By the time a student has reached college level, the primary reason for dropping out of school is a financial one. If even a few hours a day of paid employment can keep a student in school, the employer will be well rewarded, placement officers said.

Junior college students are receiving training, and many have had work experience operating various business machines, in architectural drafting, photography, art (industrial and commercial), police science, technical illustrations, data processing, dental assisting, merchandise management, journalism, secretarial science, accounting and industrial electronics.

College students are available for work in sales, restaurant and drive-in work, as cashiers, receptionists, typists, switchboard operators, stock clerks, life guards, swim instructors, delivery, service station attendants, and for labor (any type), yard work and child care.

Applicants for each job are carefully selected and screened by personnel trained by the California State Department of Employment. This is a free service to both employer and employee.

When Grossmont College moves to its new campus in Fletcher Hills in late August the Student Placement Office will be in room 114, Administration Center, telephone number 465-1700.

Californians Set All-Time High For Travel To Capital

Vacation travel by Californians to the National Capital is believed by U.S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel to be at an all-time high this year.

The large tourist influx, which the Senior California Senator attributes partly to the New York World's Fair, has brought between 100 and 150 requests daily for gallery passes to observe Senate proceedings. This is more than double the number ever sought in previous years.

The steady flow of home-state tourists has caused complications for the Senate assistant Republican leader. With the White House limiting strictly the number of persons booked for special tours, Kuchel's quota this year has been exhausted for several weeks in advance.

GOP $100 Dinner Slated For Sept.

RAdm. Leslie E. Gehres, USN (ret.), chairman of the Republican Central Committee of San Diego County, announced that the major Republican fund-raising event of 1964 in San Diego County, the 14th annual $100-per-plate dinner, will be held Friday, Sept. 18, in the International Room of the El Cortez Hotel. Dr. Roy M. Ledford, Sr., is the dinner chairman.

The Hon. Thurston B. Morton, United States Senator (Rep.) from Kentucky, will be honoree and chief speaker at the dinner. Morton's appearance is jointly sponsored by Republican Associates and the Republican Central Committee.

Morton attracted national attention most recently as permanent chairman of the 1964 Republican National Convention which nominated Senator Barry Goldwater and Congressman William Miller to head the GOP national ticket in November. At San Francisco, Morton's firm manner with the gavel and dry humor preserved order and allowed convention business to proceed when the hyper-enthusiasm of the delegates several times threatened to impede it.

Ledford announced that Roscoe T. Hazard, Sr. will be honorary chairman of ticket sales. Chairman of ticket sales is Edward A. Brietbard. Other dinner committee assignments are: Richard G. Capen (program and master of ceremonies); Mrs. Sherman O'Reilly (arrangements;) John P. Starkey (finance); Robert C. Walker and Peter B. Wilson (publicity).

Except For Politics,

Alan Cranston, controller of the State of California, was paying respects to gentlemen of the press via personal telephone calls last week. It was an act typically Cranston. Who but Cranston would take time out to say "thank you" even though he came up loser in his race against Pierre Salinger for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Salinger's people said Cranston forced State Appraisers to dump in huge sums to aid in his campagin. Appraisers are appointees of the controller's office. These guys might have dumped in large sums for Cranston's campaign but my guess is that if they did most of them did it because they wanted to. They did it because Cranston has the homey sort of personality that makes people want to help him. But his political philosophy is something else again. His is the type that causes the hackles to rise on the necks of politically con servatives.

So when Controller Cranston called from Sacramento to express his appreciation, we had a further word of encouragement for him.

"Alan," we said, "you're such a nice guy that you ought to be Republican."

"I don't know how long I could hold out if I had many guys like you working on me," he answered

Armed Man Attacks Drive-In Employes

The injured men, Michael Candelaria, 18, and Daniel Baxter, both of La Mesa, told sheriff's deputies that Hendricks entered the drive-in while they were closing. When Hendricks was asked to leave, Candelaria said, Hendricks pushed him against a wall and then with the knife inflicted a one-inch scratch on his neck.

Baxter, attempting to help Candelaria, was cut on the left arm and had the knife pointed at his throat, breaking the skin.

The man then fled from the drive-in in a pick-up truck. He was later arrested by sheriff's deputies.

Michael Donald Keegan, 22, of 1649 Madera st., Spring Valley, was transported to County Jail and booked on suspicion of being drunk and disturbing the peace after he allegedly created a commotion Sunday at Griffin's Drive-In at Broadway and Citrus st., Lemon Grove.

Sheriff's deputies W. Fusaro and Sgt. R. Hays wso responded to a call, alleged that Keegan was making threatening and obscene remarks in the presence of women and children who were at the drive in cafe.

The officers claimed that Keegan was so belligerent that force had to be used before he could be transported to County Jail where he was booked.

Here is another column by veteran writer Pete Odens of Imperial Valley. An interesting historian, his columns, which we will publish from time to time, will concern history of Southern California.

by Peter Odens

ALPINE, CALIF. — When the doctors told Beatrice Griscom that she had tuberculosis, she did not cry. The twentieth century had just begun and it was to be an exciting century, with automobiles, flying machines, new development everywhere that she wanted to be part of. But there still were the wide open spaces, the forest and the mountains, and these must be hers above all if she wanted to get well.

She left her comfortable home in Coronado and went into the mountains east of San Diego. There, on a stretch of land on both sides of the Sweetwater river, she filed her homestead as she began to fight death which she did successfully for close to 40 years.

In 1960, when John Rognile and his family bought the old Griscom homestead they found several diaries which Beatrice had left behind and which portrays her as a 20th century pioneer who refused to acknowledge defeat until the very end.

Those who remember Beatrice Griscom say that she was a large woman who like to wear coveralls made especially for her. Brought up in a fashionable home — her father was a physician — she appreciated the arts, the theater, and the game of cards. But her deep love was for the outdoors, the fairyland scenery of her homestead as well as the storms and floods which plagued it. Time and again we come across the mention of the elements in her diary. The river was about to overflow its banks on January 2, 1936, but she called this "grand" because it was a grand spectacle. On March 25, it was "very cold but grand" and on April 3 and 4 it "stormed like fury — still stormed worse — but grand".

Builds House

We could learn but little of the early years she spent alone on her homestead which she called "Wildwood Glen". Somehow, with the help of her friends and some hired hands, a house went up near the river. But for this woman who needed open, fresh air, the house was meant to sleep in only when the fury of the weather forced her. Otherwise, she slept in a tree house some twelve feet above the ground.

A woman such as Beatrice Griscom would never be without visitors for long. She was too full of the joie de vivre. Although she was never married, she loved children and invited them in camp in Wildwood Glen. Various organizations began to accept her offer and visited Wildwood Glen for days at a time. Thus was born the idea of the summer camp as cabin after cabin, named romantically "Lupine", "Lila", "Blue Jay", Humpty Dumpty" became available for rent.

With all the work she had cut out for herself, Beatrice made frequent trip to San Diego and other places in California and wherever she went, she took in theater and movie shows, concerts and exhibits. But she seemed happiest when she was all by herself although there were many hard chores to be taken care of. Alone one day in February of 1936 she enjoyed the rain which poured down on her house and was. as she put it, "tired but happy — at peace with the world".

Singlehanded most of the time, she fought adversities. By the end of January, 1937, the temperature had gone down to eight degrees. Water pipes froze and burst. At the same time, one of her boarders, a man named Burges, was taken ill and had to be taken care of. Eventually, while the storm was howling, he had to be taken to the hospital in Paradise Valley. By February 6, rains set in and the river rose steadily. In her diary she expressed the fear that the electric motor might be damaged by the rising waters and so, the following day she went for help. But as she returned, the peaceful river had turned into a furious storm, had overflown its banks and washed away the motor and all but one of the trees.

Conquors Illness

Beatrice Griscom conquered tuberculosis, but other troubles began to wear her down. She had occasional difficulties with her heart, was found anemic and had low blood pressure. Every now and then depression hit her such as the day when, in the heat of summer, she "made a scene in the evening . . . and Berter (a helper) resigned". Then she was "sick of life and all broken up — seem such a failure".

But these spells did not last long, and by 1944, at the age of 75, she went on an extensive trip to Montana. She arrived there on February 19 with the temperature at 20 below zero. She slept with the window open even though the mercury dropped to 35 below zero, and on February 20 she learned to ride horseback and to ski, rode a bulldozer and had " a wild snow fight wth three boys". Then, she was in the zenith of her life.

Two years later, Beatrice was operated on at Scripps Memorial Hospital. The diagnosis — cancer. With the added expense for treatment, financial difficulties set in until she got a loan for which she was "deeply thankful". Slowly, she recovered and her entries in her diaries showed some of the old spirit, the old enthusiasm, but not for long. In 1949, we find fewer and fewer entries. In January, the branches of the trees in Wildwood Glen were breaking under the weight of the snow which had settled some 15 inches on the ground. Beatrice filled a tub with snow and pulled it into her kitchen, allowed it to melt and took a bath in it — a last gesture of defiance.

On June 8 she had to go to the doctor again and found out that she had a recurrence of cancer. "Pretty blue," her diary says, "very blue — couldn't see the light." Methodically, she put her place in order for the time she was to be in the hospital for treatment. By June 24, she returned home, but not for long.

She was 80 years old when she died, a woman who loved life to the fullest, who loved nature and who once wrote down in her diary a sentence which impressed her deeply: "Nobody who is somebody looks down on anybody".

The wedding was at St. John of the Cross Catholic Church. After a wedding trip to Los Angeles the couple will live in San Diego.

Residents Voice Views On Future Freeway Route

The entire cafetorium of the Spring Valley Junior High School was occupied Tuesday with people standing about the room to hear discussion on the proposed routes "B" and "C" of which one is planned to come through the Spring Valley or Lemon Grove area. Jacob Dekema, chief engineer for the California Division of Highways, San Diego Branch, was in charge of the hearing.

Several people from Lemon Grove and west of Sweetwater rd. expressed support of route "B" which runs up from Blossom ln., near Mt. Miguel High School, veers east of Bancroft dr., crosses Campo rd., and ties in to Highway 67.

Several Spring Valley people and others representing various organizations, spoke in opposition to Route "B" and said they favored Route "C". Route "C" also comes north from Blossom ln. and eventually ties into Freeway 94 near St. John of the Cross Catholic Church.

Spokesmen for opposition to Route "B" were more or less in agreement that Route "B" would:

1. Be more costly; 2. Create a traffic problem with its off-ramps; 3. Take more property off the tax rolls; 4. Split Spring Valley in two pieces, killing any hope for future city status; 5. Cut off sea breezes; 6. Create a noise problem; 7. Make a health problem due to monoxide gas; 8. Cause a problem of school attendance districts.

Other persons contended that Route "B" would cause many dead end streets, which would hinder the Spring Valley Fire Department access to adjacent areas.

The State showed a list of figures which indicated costs of both routes. Figures for both routes were close:

1. Route "B" and Route "C" are both to be 4.4 miles long.

2. Construction of Route "B" would be $16.3 million against $15 million for Route "C".

3. Rights of way and utilities for "B" would be $9.5 million against $10.6 million for "C".

4. Total cost for "B" would be $25.8 million against $25.6 million for "C".

5. Route "B" would take out 308 houses and Route "C" 216.

6. "B" would take 19 multi-family units and "C" would take 17.

7. "B" will take 17 commercial buildings against 22 for "C".

8. "B" and "C" both will take two industries.

Also taken by both routes will be a fire station. "B" will take a chicken ranch and "C" a church.

Route "B" will save motorists $49.0 million over a 20-year period against $46.5 million for Route "C".

Jacob Dekema said it may be ten years or more before work can be started on either route. At that time, he pointed out, there will be about two million people living in this area. He said plans are not yet completed for either route. Plans for the on and off ramps have not been completed. He said that by the time work is to start that many changes may have been made on the plans.

Dekema said there may be interchanges at Troy st., Blossom ln., Tropico dr., and along Bancroft dr. in the meantime, he said, money may be appropriated to correct the problem of Highway 94 and the cloverleaf at Palm and Campo rd.

Some people complained that persons living on North Bancroft dr. will be surrounded by three freeways. Dekema said the State Highway Department does not build roads which will be disruptive to people and property. He said the State will help property owners, whose homes are to be purchased for freeways, to get full information regarding prices and how to move the homes. Information may be obtained by stopping by the San Diego office on Taylor st., in Old Town, San Diego.

Jim Utt Demands More Col. Water

A call to locate and develop additional water resources for the Colorado River Basin was issued by Congressman James B. Utt (R-35th) in answer to the Supreme Court's January decree in Arizona vs. California.

Acutely aware of Southern California's impending water crisis, Utt submitted a bill (H.R. 12332) to authorize a maximum three-year, $10,000,000 investigation of water resources together with cost estimates, preliminary plans, financing methods, and recommendations for construction and enabling legislation.

The new study would determine how much water must be added to guarantee adequate supplies to California, Arizona and Nevada without shorting the supply to other dependent regions.

The bill provides that existing economies be protected before additional demands are met from the Colorado. This provision is aimed specifically at the new central Arizona aqueduct project.

Utt said this protection would include 4.4 milion acre-feet annualy for California.

Utt's bill has been referred to the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. That committee is also studying legislation introduced by him in May calling for a five-state regional plan of cooperation and construction.

The new bill would augment those studies, aimed at transporting water from northern watersheds, with information on salvage and conservation measures, ground water recovery, desalinization of sea water and brackish waters, and weather modification. The new bill states any plans for importation of water from other watershed must provide for the ultimate requirements of the states of origin.

Salvato has changed the name of the store to "Win-Mil" and said that the store will handle the area's largest assortment of beer.

The store is presently being remodeled to make shopping more convenient, he said.

DUST OR SPRAY?

In the case of roses there always arises the question of which is better to use, dust or spray. If you have learned to use dust and can apply it properly and have had good success with it, then I would recommend that you continue to do so. There are many good combination rose dusts being sold in garden supply stores which do a very commendable job of controlling mildew and aphis, the two worst pests in the rose garden. Try to find one containing pyrenthrin, sulphur and blightrol for complete coverage.

Liquid sprays are more popular because of the ease of application and the drenching nature of the material as it is applied with water mixtures or in the now popular rose bomb.

However, care must be taken not to hold the bombs too close to the plants because of the burning possibilities of the ejector gas. Many types of sprayers are now in use for applying mixed liquids. It would be wise for you to have your nurseryman explaining the proper way to mix sprays in any of these before using them. A good rose spray now available contains both nicotine and copper for all purpose control.

Refrigerator-Freezers

No-Frost-Ever Type

The refrigerator-freezer which most families buy today is actually two-appliances-in-one. It has a separate refrigerator section and a true freezer compartment which maintains zero temperature.

A big new feature of this refrigerator-freezer combination is the absence of frost in the freezer compartment as well as in the refrigerator section. This means that frozen food packages don't stick together, and, being frost-free, the labels can be read easily. And, of course, a distinct advantage is the fact that you never have to defrost either the refrigerator or freezer compartment.

Types That Frost

Next to the no-frost-ever type of refrigerator-freezer, the most desirable type is one in which no frost forms in the refrigerator but does form in the freezer where it is defrosted automatically. A variation of this is the type which calls for manual defrosting of the freezer in which you do the defrosting when necessary. Also, there is the old-fashioned refrigerator-freezer which has to be completely defrosted by hand. With either of these last two types, you have the messy defrosting job to do.

Bigger Inside, Not Outside

Because of advancements in insulation, outside walls are thinner in today's refrigerator-freezer. You get more storage space. They are bigger inside, but not outside... so they don't take up any more room in your kitchen. In the refrigerator section, there is more space between shelves and some doors are so deep you can store half-gallon bottles in them. Many families find that the spacious freezer section adequately meets their frozen-food storage needs.

A Size For Every Family

The size you buy will depend upon the number and the ages of people in your family, your shopping habits, and the kind of food you buy. Remember that with a big freezer section you can stock up on freezer specials and freeze more leftovers. Also keep in mind that you are buying a major appliance that will serve your family and its growing needs for years to come. (Women are always telling us that they wish they had purchased a larger one.)

Features Galore

Automatic ice dispensers, special meat keepers, juice dispensers, roll-out shelves, crispers and other conveniences vary from model-to-model. Also, refrigerator-freezers come in colors, as well as white, and have both left-handed and right-handed doors. Manufacturers make a model to meet most every family's needs. (One manufacturer alone produces over 20 models, with many variations of each model.)

So, when you see a dealer, remember you are buying a refrigerator-freezer to meet your family's needs for both now and years to come. And, of course, absence of frost in both compartments is the big, exciting new feature you will insist upon in order to be free of messy defrosting chores.
